The Tallis Scholars, Director Peter Phillips Co-sponsored with Indianapolis Early Music

Tickets $40

Tickets available at spmindy.org and at door while supplies last

Through recordings and concert performances, The Tallis Scholars has established itself as the leading exponent of Renaissance sacred music throughout the world. Peter Phillips has worked with the group to create, through good tuning and blend, the purity and clarity of sound that he feels best serves the Renaissance repertoire, allowing every detail of the musical lines to be heard. It is the resulting beauty of sound for which The Tallis Scholars has become so widely renowned. Presenting a concert entitled "A Renaissance Christmas," the group traverses a wide swath of vocal styles from Praetorius to a new work by American composer Nico Muhly.

Widely regarded as one of the Western world's greatest pieces of art, Johann Sebastian Bach's account of the trial and crucifixion of Jesus according to the Gospel of John compels and moves audiences year after year. The dramatic and kaleidoscopic sequence of narrative, arias, chorales, and choruses is supported by a period-instrument orchestra and cast of soloists. While it can serve as a religious meditation for scores of Christians, the experience of this music is transporting and transcendent, whatever the listener's background or persuasion.
